

CAS hosts family event in Markham tonight

Ross Arbour

Published on Sep 29, 2008

"Kids shouldn't have to live with abuse" -- that's the message the York Region Children's Aid Society wants to publicize at their Home & Family event.

The exhibit will be on Monday, September 29th from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at Varley Art Gallery on Unionville's Main Street. Here, a showcase of more than 35 acrylic-on-canvas paintings by artists age four to eleven will be on display. The charitable objective is to advocate for the well-being of children by raising awareness on child abuse, a neglectful wrongdoing that Children's Aid Society protected 8000 York Region children from last year.

Home & Family is operating as part of a province wide initiative through Ontario Children's Aid Societies called "Use Your Voice" that encourages reporting instances on child abuse.